Tack #1. Fill in the helow prompts

Sub Task #1: What concepts/topics were totally new to you?

■ Task Response Prompt

Mention specific concepts/topics

Response:

Alot was new to me mainly because ive only worked with bare bones css and html, i have tried using js scripts once on a personal website but that was pretty much it, regardless I learned about js decleration HTML Dom's and alot of styling from css.

Sub-Task

Group: Reflection

Task #1: Fill in the below prompts

Sub Task #2: What concepts/topics were you already familiar with?

■ Task Response Prompt

Mention specific concepts/topics

Response:

I was already familiar with basic tags (h1—>h6), commenting for html, and js, I was familiar with how to start a script within an public HTML file. Additionally I was familiar with the layout and way to call id's for css styling, and the way that everything is in a heirarchy depedning on what your styling over.

Sub-Task

Group: Reflection

Task #1: Fill in the below prompts

Sub Task #3: What topics do you still not feel confident about? If confident, explain why.

¬Task Response Prompt

At least a few reasonable sentences.

Response:

I still need alot of work with HTML doms, its slighlty a confusing subject. I also feel like I can studdy more of the js specifically since it is a whole other languages with many use cases. The syntax of it is diffent in that of java, one of the main differences being the way that you call variables using const as much as possible but also having let, and despite this still needing to consider the age of the webpage might needing to then use var.
